MARIA HOUGHTON died 16 July 1834 GEORGE HOUGHTON died 17 February 1853

George Houghton was baptised at St Paul Exeter on 8 September 1765¹, the eldest of four children born to Richard and Mary(I) (née Rolston; m. 13 October 1751).¹ Richard was a mercer, but he and his co-partner William King were declared bankrupt in 1784.2 A few years later, on November 2nd 1789, George (then aged 24) was entered onto the Roll of Freemen of Exeter, having been apprenticed to his father Richard Houghton as a Druggist.3 The Exeter Pocket Journal for 1796 lists "Houghton & Sons, druggists, south-street", and it seems that Richard lived for some years in a 'convenient dwelling house, situate opposite the Little Stile, in the Parish of St George'.4 George married for the first time on 6 April 1794 to Mary(II) Brownscombe (b. 1752), in the parish of Clyst St George. There is no record of any children from this marriage. The Militia List for the parish of St Olave (1803) states that George, a druggist by profession, served as a Constable.⁵ Richard died in March 1815⁶ at the age of 86, leaving amongst other bequests a legacy of 10 guineas to the Exeter Charity Schools.7

In June 1817 an advertisement appeared in the Exeter Flying Post (below) for the sale by private contract of a dwelling house, warehouse and tenement at 101 Fore Street in St Olave's parish.⁸ George Houghton is named in the advert and the premises are claimed to be suitable for a "druggist, grocer and tea dealer", where "the...business has been carried on for nearly twenty years". It seems that George, then aged 52 and without a child to continue the business, had decided to sell up. The successors at 101 Fore Street were William and Henry Matthews and they advertised that fact in the Exeter Flying Post on 18 September 1817, next to a notice of thanks to his friends and customers from George Houghton. George and Mary had moved to St Sidwells, close to the "Black Boy Turnpike", prior to the sale of the business, but the precise address is as yet unknown. Sadly, less than one year later, on 6th September 1818, George's wife Mary(II) died in her 66th year. ¹⁰ Her passing was reported to be "much regretted". ¹⁰

George re-married in October 1820, aged 55. His wife was Maria Huxham "of Alphington"¹¹, but she had actually been born in Harberton and baptised on 5 December 1781.¹² They married in Alphington Parish Church under licence – he as a Gentleman and widower, she as a spinster.¹³ Maria's parents, Thomas and Rebecca (also Rebekah) had eight children, the last four being born in Ashburton where their eldest son, John, became a vicar. Henry Matthews (vide supra) and his wife Elizabeth, who married in June 1820, were witnesses at the marriage of George and Maria.¹³ Both were buried in the Dissenters' graveyard (see Memorial 71).

In 1822 and 1823, George took a lease on seven dwelling houses being built by Thomas Simons on land leased by the feoffees of St Sidwells to Thomas Binford in 1803.¹⁴ Known as Hampton Buildings, the houses are still located on Blackboy Road in Exeter, George and Maria occupied number 5.¹⁵

George was a dissenter for most of his life, although his father was buried in St Sidwells. George appeared on a list of members of the Unitarian Society in the West of England in 1799¹⁶, and is known to have worshipped at George's Chapel, South Street, Exeter.¹⁷ He involved himself in worthy causes, becoming an officer of the Devon and Exeter Hospital in 1829, together with several dissenters including Revd James Manning, druggist John Hill and Mr Diederick Bielfeld.¹⁸ He made several donations to public subscriptions. He also served as President of the Protestant Dissenters Charity School located in Paris Street, Exeter in 1828. At that time, Diederick Bielfeld (Memorial 6) was Treasurer and James and Sarah Bowden (see Memorial 5) were the schoolmaster and mistress, respectively.¹⁹

Maria died at home (5 Hampton Buildings, Exeter) in July 1834, aged 52, after a 'long and severe illness' and was buried in the Dissenters' graveyard. George continued to live at 5 Hampton Buildings until his own death on February 17th 1853 at the age of 87 – "the oldest Freeman of this city". His will was written in September 1834 and in that document he left nineteen guineas to his servant Ann Newberry, and 100 pounds to Henry Matthews, but of interest is a portrait of George with his sister Mary, bequeathed to his brother-in-law James Taylor of Philadelphia. The bulk of his estate was left to his sister Mary. In his will he instructed that his remains should be interred, "..in a decent manner in the Protestant Dissenting Burying Ground in Magdalen Streetby the side of my late dear Wife Maria..." In codicils added in 1838 and 1841 he left money to Maria's surviving siblings, a full-length profile to his niece Sarah Wills, silver spoons, a portrait, "..my Gold fish with the Glass Globe.." and "..my birds with their cages.." to Ann Newberry as long as she was still his servant at the time of his decease. In the 1851 Census, Ann Newberry was referred to as his housekeeper, aged 44 and unmarried, and Ann Sampson, an 18-year old from Pinhoe, had joined his household as a Servant. George's will was proved on 15th March 1853 by the oath of his Executor, James Shapland, an accountant who lived at 6 Hampton Buildings.¹⁵

George was one of the last people to be interred in the graveyard before it closed in 1854.
